LONDON (AP) — Britain's first and only heart transplant patient, Frederick West, 45, died at the National Heart hospital Monday night. The end came 45 days after he received the heart of an Irish laborer.

A hospital statement said West died at 9 p.m. local time from "overwhelming infection."

Medical sources said West's death was not primarily due to the heart transplant—rather that the infection was too strong for modern drugs in the absence of the body's natural defenses.

West was the world's 16th heart transplant patient to die, the sources said.

Twenty-one heart transplants have been performed and five of the recipients were still alive Monday night.

Frederick West

The hospital statement said: "Out of respect for his family we would prefer not to make any further statement tonight."

West, a building contractor who was doomed to die with his own failing heart, was operated on May 3.

He was walking within three days after he received the heart of Patrick Ryan and had been making what doctors called an amazing recovery until a chest infection developed June 8.

Doctors hooked up a breathing machine to take the load off West's new heart and he began to rally but then his kidneys began failing.

He had been given immunosuppressive drugs continuously since the operation, leaving him vulnerable to infection. British medical authorities said when the chest infection and kidney malfunctioning began that these could be the after-effects of any major surgery—even noncardiac operations—and did not specifically apply to heart transplants.

West Berlin demonstrators force way into memorial

BERLIN (AP) — Demonstrators forced their way onto the grounds of the Soviet war memorial in West Berlin Monday but withdrew when Russian soldiers, some with bayonets fixed on automatic weapons, advanced to meet them.

Police said the demonstration, on the 15th anniversary of the 1953 uprising against Communist rule in East Germany, was directed against both the Russians and East Germans. East Germany has placed new restrictions on access by West Germans to West Berlin.

Police reports of the incident made no mention that Soviet guards at the memorial were armed. But photographs showed six Red army soldiers moving forward with weapons held level. At least two had bayonets fixed.

There was no report that the soldiers fired their weapons or made contact with the demonstrators.

strators. Police said no one was injured.

An eyewitness said one Russian sprayed water at the demonstrators with a garden hose.

The demonstration occurred after President Johnson messaged Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger in Bonn that the East German travel restrictions were "totally unprovoked and unjustified aggravation." Johnson declared U.S. "support of free Berlin and the goal of a German people united in peace remains as firm as ever."

In a televised speech Monday night, Kiesinger said the travel curbs indicate that the Soviet Union is not ready for East-West cooperation and might not be trustworthy in the proposed nonproliferation treaty against nuclear arms.

West German spokesmen have publicly held the Soviet Union responsible for East German actions against West Berlin. They have hinted that in retaliation West Germany might not sign the nuclear treaty, although West Germany has in the past renounced atomic weapons.

Kiesinger expressed gratitude for the support of West Germany's allies in the Berlin confrontation and said the East Germans "will find that they cannot outlast us."

LBJ facing crime bill deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Johnson facing a midnight deadline Wednesday to act on a crime-control package he apparently is reluctant to accept, Senate leaders said Monday any veto is likely to be overridden by Congress.

At the same time, the Senate took steps toward early action on a broader gun control bill that would require registration of all firearms. Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., added his name as a sponsor and said hearings probably will begin this week.

Mansfield said Congress is likely to rebuff any veto of the original omnibus crime bill, which falls short of Johnson's goals on gun controls and includes other sections the administration opposes.

The bill would forbid mail-order sales of pistols, but not rifles and shotguns. It authorizes court-approved wiretapping and seeks to relax Supreme Court restrictions on the use of confessions as evidence.

The White House, while strongly urging a broad ban on mail-order merchandising of all firearms, has been silent on the main measure since its passage.

Broadway grows dark in strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Actors Equity called a strike against the legitimate theater Monday, threatening a Broadway blackout and the cutoff of $1 million a week in box office receipts.

Thousands of visitors already had begun their summer influx into New York, many of them carrying tickets obtained months ago to Broadway shows.

Nineteen of the 21 productions currently on Broadway were affected by the strike call, as well as eight road shows in such cities as Los Angeles, San Francisco, Detroit, Chicago and Baltimore.

Among Broadway hits picketed by Equity strikers were "Cabaret," "Fiddler on the Roof," "George M!," "Hair," "Hello Dolly!," "Man of La Mancha," and "Plaza Suite."

Stars facing layoffs of uncertain duration included Jill Haworth, Lloyd Bridges, Betsy Palmer, Joe Grey, Steve Lawrence, Eydie Gorme, Pearl Bailey, Janis Paige, Maureen Stapleton, Robert Goulet, David Wayne, Zoe Caldwell, Gordon MacRae and Carol Lawrence.

It was the first call for a blackout of Broadway marquee since 1950, when Equity struck for nine days over pensions. Actor Ralph Bellamy headed the union during that walkout, which closed 22 productions. Only 19 of them reopened.

The 1960 strike made heavy inroads financially on hotels, restaurants, parking lots and taxi companies. In addition, it affected 800 actors and 4,000 stagehands, musicians, electricians and other nonacting personnel.

A brief Equity strike in 1964 ended after two matinee performances were cancelled.

Rockefeller meets with state officials

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller carried his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination into Pennsylvania Monday, saying he is taking nothing for granted, even though he has been endorsed by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer.

An Associated Press Poll showed Rockefeller has the support of 50 of the 64 Pennsylvania delegates. Shafer came out for Rockefeller last Saturday at the Republican Governors' association conference in Tulsa, Okla.

"I don't take anyone for granted," Rockefeller said on arriving here from New York on a chartered jet. "I am extremely realistic."

In spite of sky-threatening rain, a crowd of several hundred persons met the governor at the airport. An even larger group massed in front of the downtown hotel where he prepared to meet Pennsylvania business and civic leaders.

At an impromptu news conference on the bus that brought him to the hotel, Rockefeller said of Shafer's action: "I was already on the road, but Gov. Shafer gave me an additional lift."

Discrimination in housing bows to Supreme Court

Attorneys appointed for Sirhan

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Four Jordanian lawyers have been chosen to take part in the defense of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, accused assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, and will be joined by lawyers from other Arab countries, a Jordanian Bar Association source said Monday.

The source said the four—Fouad Atallah, Ahmad Eel Khalil, Mohamed Baradeh and Hassan Hawwa—were chosen at a bar association meeting attended by Bishara Sirhan, father of the defendant.

The Jordanians "will leave very shortly" for the United States, the source said, and will be joined later by a number of other Arab lawyers.

The younger Sirhan, 24, has been in custody in Los Angeles, Calif., since the fatal shooting there of Kennedy June 5.

In Los Angeles, public defender Richard S. Buckley said he had received a wire from two Jordanian lawyers offering to assist in Sirhan's defense.

"We will reply to that wire," Buckley said. "We will not object to their trying the case if they are qualified to do so. But under California law we cannot share responsibility for the case. We either control the case or we get out."

"This offer was to assist us and that we cannot accept. It would seem to me that these attorneys would not qualify to try the case, but if they do we'd be happy to get out. It's all up to Sirhan. If the defendant wants them and they qualify then we step out."

At young Sirhan's request, A. I. Wirin, Southern California counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union, has kept watch on the case since the Jordanian immigrant's arrest. Wirin's function has been to insure Sirhan's rights to a fair trial and to help with arrangements for a defense attorney.

The elder Sirhan told a news conference that he believes the prime cause of the assassination was what he called Kennedy's "anti-Arab" speeches.

"I was angry and sorry for my son's behavior in killing Kennedy, as we have no enmity toward Kennedy's family," Sirhan said. "We regret now his death as Kennedy, the human being, but Bob Kennedy had a double personality."

"I can say that I do not regret his death as Kennedy, the American politician who attempted to gain the presidential election by his aggressive propaganda."

Fire ruins buildings in Bushkill

BUSHKILL — Fire Monday at 12:40 p.m. destroyed one building and damaged two others at Bushkill Falls House in Bushkill.

Fire of undetermined origin erupted in the center of three buildings about one foot apart, Victor Michaels, Bushkill fire chief, said.

"When we got there flames were leaping from the roof. With the buildings that close together we immediately set up a fire wall and then with other hoses battled the blaze in the center cabin," Michaels added.

Total loss

The center building is a total loss and the other two are partly destroyed. Most of the damage in the other two is from smoke and water, according to Michaels.

The building that was destroyed and one other building was used as an employee dormitory. The third building was a maintenance shed.

Firemen returned to the firehouse at 2 p.m.

House approves state assistance to schools

HARRISBURG (AP) — The House completed legislative action Monday on a precedent-setting bill that would authorize the state to give financial assistance to private and parochial schools.

By a vote of 107-74, the House accepted amendments that had been inserted into the measure before it passed the Senate last Wednesday.

The amendments scaled down the initial outlay from $27 million to $4.3 million, which Gov. Shafer maintained was all that was available at this time.

The bill's chief sponsor, Rep. Matthew F. Coppolino, D-Philadelphia, hailed final passage as an "historic occasion" in Pennsylvania and a precedent for all states.

"No state I know of has this kind of sweeping legislation to provide actual financial assistance to nonpublic schools," Coppolino said in an off-the-floor interview. "I expect the law to be challenged in the courts and to be upheld as constitutional."

The question of the measure's constitutionality accounted for the bulk of the negative votes cast as the House concurred in the Senate amendments. However, several proponents of nonpublic school aid opposed concurrence because of the sizable cut in the amount.

Rep. Martin P. Mullen, D-Philadelphia, said the bill failed to meet the needs of the state's 600,000 nonpublic school children. He also charged that the Pennsylvania Catholic Conference, which strongly backed the bill, "made a deal with the governor to sell their people down the river."

"Certainly, the four million people of the Catholic persuasion are not going to forget the shabby and insulting treatment they are receiving from the governor and the present administration," Mullen said.

Sponsors of the bill viewed the amount of initial aid as unimportant when compared with the establishment of a precedence, thus providing the vehicle for a court test.

As one lawmaker put it, "We now have our foot in the door." As the measure went to the governor, it would earmark revenues from harness racing and eventually thoroughbred racing for nonpublic schools. When racing revenue exceeds $10 million annually, the schools will receive 50 per cent of the excess.

Nonpublic schools would be reimbursed after the teaching of four nonreligious subjects—modern foreign languages, mathematics, physical sciences and physical education. The reimbursement would be based on the cost of teachers' salaries, textbooks and other instructional materials.

Coppolino and five Republican colleagues from Philadelphia introduced the bill last December, although several similar proposals already had been buried in committee. The measure was approved by the House on May 8 by a vote of 105-80.

Shafer, contending the state had barely enough funds to balance his $2.1 billion budget for the coming fiscal year, said he would veto the bill unless it was amended by the Senate. The Catholic Conference agreed to the amendments, and the Senate approved the bill, 30-17.

Swimmer

at Easton

EASTON, Pa. (AP) — Swimmer, Russell Chaffee, "a little sunburned and blistered but feeling pretty good," Monday completed another leg of his long-distance swim down the Delaware River.

Chaffee, a mathematics teacher, is swimming to a church conference in Ocean Grove, N.J. He still has about 45 miles to go and hopes to arrive there Thursday.

He said he would attempt to swim to Frenchtown, N.J., today.

7-2 vote backs law of 1866

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Monday that discrimination in all housing sales and rentals is illegal and suggested that Congress has the power to strike at any other "relic of slavery."

The far-reaching, 7-2 decision, announced as the court began its long summer recess, held that an 1866 post-Civil War law establishes an absolute ban on racial discrimination in the sale or rental of property, private or public.

(Local story on page 9)

Beyond that, Justice Potter Stewart's written opinion could be interpreted as a green light for Congress to act against any form of economic discrimination that is based on race. The source of such authority, the majority suggested, is the power given by Congress in the 13th Amendment banning slavery.

"At the very least," Stewart wrote, "the freedom that Congress is empowered to secure under the 13th Amendment includes the freedom to buy whatever a white man can buy, the right to live wherever a white man can live."

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., chief sponsor of the open-housing provisions in the 1968 civil rights act, said the decision "closes the last legal avenue for racial discrimination in housing."

He said in a statement the court's ruling is "particularly significant because it reaches the sale of residences by individual homeowners whether they use the services of real estate brokers or not."

The civil rights act exempted individual homeowners from the ban on discrimination if they handle the sale or rental of their property themselves.

The decision took the spotlight on a get-away day in which several important holdings were dealt out. Among them:

—Sanction for police to keep jailing chronic drunks found on the city streets.

—A ban on denying welfare to children solely because of their mother's sexual misconduct.

—Freedom for community antenna television operators to pick up copyrighted movies and cartoons from TV stations without having to pay for them.

And, looking ahead to the term that begins in October, the court called for a new hearing on state laws that make needy people fulfill residency requirements before they get some forms of help. And it granted a hearing to John William Butenko, 42, of Orange, N.J., an American engineer and Igor Ivanov, 37, a Russian chauffeur convicted of conspiring to spy for the Soviet Union.

The court agreed also to rule on the constitutionality of a New York law that prohibits burning of the American flag.

The housing decision mushroomed beyond most expectations. Although President Johnson last April signed a law that bans bias in 80 per cent of the nation's housing deals, the court pushed ahead with a ruling that one of the dissenters, Justice John M. Harlan, said made exemptions in the 1968 law academic.

While this year's law barred discrimination in stages and exempted some private, small deals from its reach, Stewart said for the court the 1866 law "bars all racial discrimination, private as well as public, in the sale or rental of property."

'Lost' explorers find way from cave

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Two novice cave explorers, equipped only with a weak flashlight and one candy bar, emerged unharmed from a cave early Monday morning in the glare of rescuers' improvised searchlights.

The lost explorers were John Betts, about 35, of Norristown, and Kathy Gher, 17, who lives near Williamsport.

Betts said he was visiting at the home of Marvin Michael, near Williamsport, and after church services Sunday a group decided to go on a hike in the area.

When Betts spotted the cave,

Date set for Rt. 80 ceremonies

HARRISBURG (AP) — Ground breaking ceremonies for the final section of the Keystone Shortway Interstate 80 are scheduled to take place at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday, June 26 just north of Carroll in Clinton County.

Gov. Shafer is to lead a contingent of state government figures in breaking ground for the last leg of the 309-mile interstate highway linking Sharon and Stroudsburg.

The Keystone Shortway, begun 12 years ago, connects with Interstate 80.

Also invited for the ceremonies are:

Former Governors William W. Scranton and George M. Leader; Robert G. Bartlett, state Secretary of Highways; State Sen. Zehnder H. Confair, president of the Keystone Shortway Association; former highway secretaries Henry D. Harrel and Park L. Martin.

Three named to weather modification

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer appointed Monday three members to the Weather Modification Board, created by a recent act providing for state regulation of rain making activities.

The governor sought Senate confirmation for the appointments of Dr. Edmund R. Hill of Gettysburg; attorney Roy S. F. Angle of Rt. 3, Waynesboro, and Byron Breisch of Ringtown. Each would serve a 4-year term.

Under the new law, the board would have seven members, including the secretaries of agriculture, commerce, health, and the dean of the college of earth sciences at Pennsylvania State University.

The board would be empowered to license persons who seed clouds, requiring a $50,000 bond to cover any damages, such as too much rain.

Farmers in south central Pennsylvania were the prime supporters of the legislation.

Shafer also appointed Joseph J. Licastro of Johnstown to replace former Secretary of Labor and Industry William J. Hart on the Labor Relations Board. Licastro would serve a 5-year term.

State firm wins court judgment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court restored Monday a $12 million damage judgment the Hanover Shoe company won from the United Shoe Machinery Corp.

The judgment, by a federal court in Scranton, Pa., in 1955, was based on a finding United Shoe Machinery, based in Boston, violated federal antitrust law by refusing to sell Hanover machinery used in manufacturing shoes.

The $12,339,609 judgment was set aside by the U.S. Circuit Court in Philadelphia in April 1967 and a new trial ordered. The circuit court said damages should be computed from 1946 to 1955—not 1939 to 1955 as the district court had allowed.

Additionally, in ordering a new trial, the circuit court said damages should be reduced by tax savings Hanover got by leasing its machinery from United instead of owning it.

By a 7-1 vote, the Supreme Court reversed the circuit court. Justice Thurgood Marshall took no part in the decision.

Justice Byron R. White said for the court Hanover was entitled to damages for the entire period back to 1939, all the statute of limitations would allow. The court of appeals had ruled the computation should begin in 1946, a year of a Supreme Court decision in a precedent-setting monopoly case.

The Supreme Court also found error in the court of appeals requirement the damages be recomputed to take into account the taxes Hanover would have paid over the years had it bought the machines instead of renting them.

The district court concluded United violated Section 2 of the Sherman Act. It found United's market share of the 20 major machine types ranged from 89 to 100 per cent.

Humphrey, McCarthy seek RFK votes in New York's primary

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York's primary election campaign, subdued by the slaying of Robert F. Kennedy, drew to a close Monday as Humphrey and McCarthy supporters vied quietly for the bulk of the 123 Democratic convention delegates at stake.

Slates of delegates pledged to the late senator still will appear on today's ballot, and most say they hope to be elected as "supporters of the principles" for which Kennedy stood—but uncommitted to anyone else.

Backers of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and U.S. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy assumed, however, that many enrolled Democrats who might have preferred Kennedy will want to choose instead between the two surviving contenders.

In the Republican column, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has ignored a relatively minor challenge by adherents of Richard M. Nixon. They are contesting for only 11 of the 82 GOP delegates to be elected, and Rockefeller is guaranteed the rest.

Since Kennedy's assassination, what had been shaping up as a spirited three-way struggle for control of New York's Democratic delegation has been allowed to drift to a conclusion that no one seems willing to predict.

Instead, action has centered on competition among three Democrats for the U.S. Senate nomination to oppose Republican incumbent Jacob K. Javits.

The contenders, Eugene H. Nickerson, a Kennedy man, U.S. Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, a staunch defender of the Johnson-Humphrey administration, and former New York Councilman Paul O'Dwyer, a McCarthy admirer, carried their campaigning through the final weekend.

Resnick, a self-made millionaire, says he has spent $1 million on his campaign. Most observers rated Nickerson the favorite, largely because he was the official choice of the Kennedy-controlled State Committee.

Javits ran unopposed for the Republican nomination, but his endorsement by the Liberal Party was being challenged by

New York City lawyer Murray Baron.

Columnist William F. Buckley's older brother, James L. Buckley, a New York lawyer, had no competition for the Conservative Party nomination.

The primary also features 30 contests for nomination to Congress, 72 for seats in the State Assembly and 15 for the State Senate.

Among incumbent congressmen facing contests were veteran Democrats Adam Clayton Powell and Emanuel Celler, the dean of New York's congressional delegation.

Powell, the Harlem minister who has been denied seating by the U.S. House of Representatives, was a heavy favorite to beat John H. Young, a former staff aide. Celler's main opponent in a three-way fight was Rep. Edna F. Kelly, who was thrown into his Brooklyn district by reapportionment.

Bids sought for $169,000 dam in Greentown

MILFORD — Bids for the construction of a $169,000 dam in Greentown will be advertised by the Pike County Commissioners within the month and scheduled to be opened 11 a.m. August 19, Commissioners said Monday.

The proposed dam is in the 30-square-mile Greene-Dreher Watershed area and will be the third one for Pike County, Commissioner George Coultis said. A total five dams are planned in the Pike County portion of the watershed. The watershed encompasses Pike, Monroe and Wayne Counties.

The dam will span a tributary of the East Branch of the Wallenpaupack River in Greentown.

The other two dams, constructed within the last few years, are both in Greene Township.

The first, constructed about four years ago for $550,000 - the largest small dam in Pennsylvania at the time - spans one-half mile in LaAnna near Route 191.

The second dam, which cost $50,000, is located in the Greentown area.

Commissioners Coultis and Jay Schroeder, chairman, said construction costs will be paid by the federal government while the operation and maintenance will be borne by the county.

An estimated 16 small dams are planned for this area for flood control prevention.

The Monroe County Commissioners recently agreed to construct four small flood control dams along the Broadhead Creek in Monroe County.

The U.S. Soil Conservation Service has suggested construction of the dams.

Representatives from the U.S. Soil Conservation Service met with Pike County Commissioners during their regular monthly meeting Monday. The commissioners, during the session, signed an operation and maintenance agreement for the dam.

Attending were William Addison, of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service's engineering department; George Collier, Pike County work conservationalist and Burton Davis, project engineer.

In other action, Commissioners approved rental of an office in the Tom Quick Inn annex for Pike County School Superintendent Leland Cramer.

Cramer currently has an office on Catherine Street. The office, however, will be occupied by Dr. Dale Tyson Jr., district superintendent of the Delaware Valley Area Schools.

Cramer will move into the new office, formerly occupied by the district attorney, on July 1. Dr. Tyson assumes his new duties July 1.

Commissioners also authorized borrowing $15,000 from the Milford National Bank and $15,000 from the Matamoras Bank.

Commissioner Schroeder also said that specifications have been prepared for renovations to the court house, courthouse annex and county jail. Bids for the renovations will be opened July 1.

The court house renovations include new lights for the courtroom, repairs to window sills and walls. Commissioners have provided $34,000 in the current budget for the court house remodeling.

County Treasurer Edward Dellinger was also exonerated for taxes in Greene Township. The exonerations were for $7.45 and $8.25 from Elmer H. Bogart due to a double assessment; Moss Shiffler for 80 cents and Walter Letha and Oscar Schoenagel whose property was taken for Interstate 84 construction.

Representatives from the A.F.L.-C.I.O. were at the Commissioners' office yesterday looking at voter registration lists, it was reported.

Union representatives, however, did not present themselves to the Commissioners to request access to the registration lists. Monroe County Commissioners previously had denied the union access to the list.

The alphabetical voter registrations are public record and therefore open to the union officials, Commissioners noted.

New college trustees are named

EASTON — Charles W. G. Fuller, Chairman of the ad hoc Election Committee of the Board of Trustees of the Northampton County Area Community College has announced that action has been completed by all of the sponsoring districts of Northampton County Area Community College and that four trustees have been elected to serve six year terms.

Two of the trustees elected are incumbents. Returned to the Board of Trustees were Cecil D. Lipkin of Easton and George H. Fritzinger of Bethlehem. Lipkin was nominated by the member districts of Easton Area Joint School System.

The two new trustees are James R. Charron of Wind Gap and Dr. David Feinberg of Wilson Borough.

Charron has been a practicing attorney in the State Belt Area since 1948. A veteran of Naval service in World War II, he received the Bronze Star and other citations. He currently serves as solicitor for the Plainfield Township Municipal Authority, Solicitor of the Pen Argyl Area Joint School Authority and Solicitor for the Pen Argyl Area School District. Charron is a member of the Rotary Club of Wind Gap and has been active in Boy Scouts and other community activities.

Dr. David Feinberg is Chief of Medicine at Easton Hospital. He is also a past President of the Easton Hospital Medical Staff and of the Northampton County Medical Society. At present he is a member of the Board of Censors of the Northampton County Medical Society.

Active in community affairs, he has served as Past President of the Child Guidance Center of Northampton and Monroe Counties, Past President of the Jewish Community Center of Easton, Past President of the United Fund.

BUCK HILL FALLS — Barrett Township supervisors have adopted and approved the budget for 1968 totaling $131,452 which is based on a tax of seven mills, an increase over last year of two mills.

The one mill fire tax remains the same. Assessed evaluation upon which the budget is based is $9,211,975.

The budget total adopted last year was $105,247 based on five mills for the township and the one mill fire tax.

In discussing the budget, Lloyd LaBar, secretary treasurer of the board, pointed out that the township's indebtedness during the past few years now totals $43,400 in excess of the budgets. That is, the budgets which were adopted did not meet the expenditures of the township and loans appropriated were not met the following year out of tax money.

$5 per capita

In addition to the real estate assessment, there is five-dollar per capita tax which is annually re-evaluated and based on 1,680 taxable people in the township. Estimated revenue from this source for 1968 is $6,720, which, added to real estate tax, is estimated to result in $85,460.

In non-revenue receipts, an estimated $40,000 is to be borrowed, $4,000 will come from foreign fire insurance and $1,950 from the police pension fund resulting in the grand total of $141,452 estimated receipts, for the general fund.

Expenditures estimated from the general fund include $13,658 for administration which includes the sum of $3,200 for payment to the secretary treasurer. Last year's expenditure was $3,500 during the year plus another $990 paid during the current year.

This figure is based on three per cent of purchases made by the township during the year which is authorized by law. Other items included in administration are $600 paid to supervisors for meetings, $400 for auditors; $600 to the township engineer; $500 for the solicitor; street lights and traffic light bills, $1,400 and a sum of $2,030 due the solicitor and secretary-treasurer from last year; and capital outlay of $3,000 totaling $13,658 for administrative purposes.

Tax collection is estimated at $1,397 with $1,100 of that sum the commission of the tax collector, the remainder for supplies, printing, postage and premium on the bond.

membership in the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg Control Center and $2,500 for the purchase of a new police car if deemed necessary. A total of $419 is outstanding from last year for the control center bill and is considered in the current budget.

Fire protection is based on $4,000 which is taken from the one mill fire protection tax.

Money designated for use on township highways taken from township funds is estimated at $27,136 which includes $5,500 for snow removal; $1,500 for signs; $2,000 for repairs of tools and machinery and $2,500 for road construction.

Under the miscellaneous category, $14,005 is estimated. This includes $475 for workman's compensation; $750 for casualty and $950 for liability; $1,174 for hospitalization and $3,400 for withholding tax.

Interest on loans

Interest on tax anticipation loans is expected to cost $820 and $220 interest on bonds. A total $40,000 in tax anticipation loans which will be due during the year includes the sum of $2,500 to the Mount Pocono Airport Authority and $3,000 for refuse.

State liquid fuels highway fund receipts this year are estimated at $17,058. This money must be used only for highway expenditures in the township.

Fire protection, based on the one-mill fire tax is a separate fund, handled by the township supervisors. A balance in the account from last year totals $26,859.

Estimated receipts are $8,750 from taxes, $375 expected from delinquent taxes and $582 from interest. Balance and receipts total $36,567. Out of this, the new fire truck is estimated at $24,000; repairs, $1,250; gas and oil, $850; insurance, $670 and miscellaneous, $789 to total estimated expenditures of $27,587 and leave a balance of $9,000.

The refuse account has a balance of $157 which is added to estimated receipts of $24,500 in assessment; $850 to be collected from prior year; $300 from new collection and a loan of $8,000 from the general fund to total $34,193.

Expenditures from this fund are estimated at $14,587 in salaries or wages; repairs, $3,800; land lease, $240 and supplies, $580 for a total of $19,043. Payment on loan and interest is estimated at $10,080 for a total balance, $4,270 and the expenses of $34,193.

In addition to the increase of two mills to raise revenue, supervisors estimate that the one-half of the one per cent real estate transfer tax will realize $2,500 during the year. This sum is able to fluctuate considerably due to the fact that it depends on the economic health of the township for its total.

Veteran Milford trooper retires

MILFORD — Cpl. Joseph A. Wroblewski of Milford, a Pennsylvania State Trooper for 30 years Monday announced his retirement, effective on July 4. Cpl. Wroblewski, stationed at the Milford State Police station for the last several years, is a native of Edwardsville in Luzerne County.

The stocky, white-haired 51-year-old police veteran, enlisted in the U.S. Air Force and served in the Panama Canal Zone. He joined the Pennsylvania State Police on April 1, 1938 after receiving his honorable discharge from the Air Force. He trained at the State Police Academy in Meyerstown and Hershey.

During his 30 years in the State Police, he was stationed at New Milford, Clarks Summit, Daleville, Blakely, Honesdale and Milford.

Cpl. Wroblewski was involved in numerous major crime investigations in the Troop Area and in addition to his regular duties was also a Youth Aid Supervisor of Pike County.

He is a charter member of the John Hancock Lodge, Fraternal Order of Police and an office holder in the Knights of Columbus. He is a member of St. Patrick's Church, Milford.

The corporal is married to the former Stella Nita, a native of Plains, Luzerne County. They reside in Pine Acres, Milford.

Anthony DeBerardinis

Area man becomes dentist

PEN ARGYL — Anthony DeBerardinis, son of Antonio DeBerardinis of Pen Argyl, received a Doctor of Dental Surgery Degree from Temple University, School of Dentistry, at commencement exercises on June 14.

Dr. DeBerardinis did his undergraduate work at the Pennsylvania State University. He is married to the former Ann Davies of Wind Gap.

Commissioned a Captain in the U.S. Army Dental Corps, he will serve a two year tour of duty at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

He plans to establish a dental practice upon his return to this area.

Jersey police will purchase helicopters

TRENTON, N.J. — New Jersey's Highway Safety Program received further impetus today with approval of a $373,482 federal grant to establish a helicopter highway patrol by the State Police.

The aerial traffic safety patrol, it is believed, will be the first in the nation to be set up on a regular, routine basis by a state police agency.

The grant was made by the National Highway Safety Bureau of the Federal Highway Administration of the U.S. Department of Transportation. It was announced by Assistant Transportation Commissioner Russell H. Mullen, who is Governor Hughes' Representative to the National Highway Safety Bureau and Chairman of the State Interdepartmental Highway Safety Program Committee.

The newest grant brings to $825,000 the total which New Jersey has received from the National Highway Safety Bureau in the present fiscal year.

"This project," Mr. Mullen said, "is designed to improve the efficiency, availability and over-all capability of police patrols in highway safety. Under the program the role of the rotary wing will be developed. There are numerous applications under which aerial patrol techniques can be applied."

Two plead guilty in Pike court

MILFORD — Two persons pleaded guilty in Pike County Court Monday morning before Judge Arlington W. Williams.

Judge Williams deferred sentence for both pending a pre-sentence hearing.

The two are:

Jamie Raymond Hylas of 215 W. Catherine St., pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a motor vehicle without a license for the second time.

Kenneth Paul Chapman of 208 E. Grove St., Dunmore, pleaded guilty to six counts of burglary and one count of receiving stolen goods. District Attorney William Gumble will nulloify the receiving stolen goods charge.

Both were indicted by the Grand Jury on June 6.

Following the pleas by the two, the court resumed trial for the second day in a land condemnation case.

Joseph and Anna Coughlin of Dingman Township are plaintiffs in the case and the State Highway Department is the defendant. The case involves nearly 600 acres of land which is being affected by construction of Interstate 80.

Rev. Jannusch still in hospital

NEWFOUNDLAND — The Rev. William Jannusch, pastor of the Hollisterville-Sterling United Methodist Church is still hospitalized with injuries suffered at Eastertime in an automobile accident in Sterling Township.

On Father's Day, his pulpit was filled by the Rev. Dr. Frederick G. Fulmer, retired Moravian pastor, who spoke on the theme, "God Touched Men."

P.M. firemen plan carnival work day

MOUNT POCONO — Members of the Pocono Mountains Volunteer Fire Co., Mt. Pocono, will hold a work day June 30 at the Carnival Grounds to prepare for the 1968 carnival.

The women will fix a pot luck supper and take it to the carnival grounds at 4:30 p.m.

The carnival planning committee held a meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Alvin MacWilliams. The committee members presented suggestions to the company for approval. Committee members are Mrs. MacWilliams, Mrs. Robert Altomero, Mrs. Elmer Strong, Mrs. Bernard Pallo, Mrs. Robert Besekard, Mrs. Thomas Sables and Miss Julia Hamblin.

Dr. Theodore Doederlein addressed the group's recent business meeting. Speaking on chiropractic procedure, he explained the founding of chiropractic in the U.S. and the function of a chiropractor.

The next regular meeting will be 8:30 p.m. July 9 in the fire hall.

Can you answer these questions?

We have often wondered what our servicemen in Vietnam think of our conduct here at home. What kind of a reception has our wave of assassinations, demonstrations, complaints and acts of violence received on the fighting front in the jungle?

The answer to our thoughts were supplied by Dave Duncan, a Seabee home on leave from Vietnam. His answers were straight from the shoulder and left little doubt what the servicemen think of the people at home and the actions of our supposedly expressive society.

Duncan asked why the people at home can't fight Communism like the servicemen in Vietnam? He asked why the white race and the Negro race can't work and live in harmony in the United States as they do on the field of battle?

The Stroudsburg resident wanted to know why the inhabitants of a nation as great as the United States couldn't live in harmony and why it had to think of gun control? There were other questions too, each giving the servicemen on foreign shores a degree of concern.

There was no doubt in Duncan's mind that the Allies are winning the battle in Vietnam, despite alarming reports. He was also certain that the United States does belong in Vietnam and that the cause to fight against Communism is one of the greatest causes to ever face the United States.

Duncan's greatest alarm stems from the fact that the people of the United States don't even appear worried about Communism and its future spread.

The young Seabee remained in the office only a few minutes, but the questions he asked put us all to thinking. They might well bring about a lot more thought by everyone within our reading range.

Answers supplied to these questions could change our way of thinking. However, even more important these same answers could change our entire way of life. We may shoot for a future common goal, which could bring peace to the world.

Boost for older workers

June 21 may mark the beginning of a new era for workers well past the first blush of youth.

That is the effective date of a new federal law forbidding employers and employment agencies to reject or discharge job applicants because they are middle-aged.

Labor unions may then no longer bar workers in the 40-55 age bracket; "help wanted" ads may not designate age as a qualification for employment. The impact of this may be considerable.

It is estimated that at present one out of every four job openings is closed to those between 40 and 55, and two out of every four to those over 55.

Some of these restrictions are due to mandatory rules of corporations. These are in general a hangover from an earlier day when life expectancy was much shorter and there was a surplus of skilled workers.

The situation has changed radically since then, but in many cases the rules have not changed accordingly. The new requirements will improve the lot of the middle-aged and elderly.

Their income no longer need cease with their entrance into an older age group.

They will not be forced to live with their children, as often happens, and will in any case be less of a drain on other members of the family.

Above all opportunity for continued employment will help to assure them that vital ingredient in life—a sense of remaining productive and useful.

History in stamps

Are you a student of History? Whether you are a graduate or still in school you now have the entire summer to take up the hobby of stamp collecting to fill the extra time you now have. If you like history start with the issue of the Ten Historic Flags that will be released July 4 at Pittsburgh.

If you arrange the flags with the history connected with it you will have what is termed a "Topical Collection". From this beginning you can add the 48 star flag stamp of 1957; the 49 star flag of 1959; the 50 star flag of 1960, 1963 and 1968 together with the 13 cent flag postcard of 1967.

Then to add more interest to your collection add the Francis Scott Key stamp with the Fort Mifflin flag, the surrender of General Burgoyne stamp of 1927 with the Bennington flag and the Surrender at Yorktown stamp of 1931 with the Rhode Island flag.

With the help of the Historic Flag issue you can "Make History".

What is gun lobby?

Housewife, hunter, average citizen members

By DAVID B. OTTAWAY
Record Washington Bureau

What is the "gun lobby"? "The housewife, hunter, and average citizen," says Rep. Robert C. McEwen (R-N.Y.).

"The powerful National Rifle Assn. (NRA)," said Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, "father" of present-day gun-control legislation.

Dodd claimed this week that he had seen "top officers" of the NRA buttonholing Congressmen even in the reception room to the Senate Chamber.

"For weeks before and during the debate on the gun bill," Dodd told his colleagues, "officials of the gun industry, conservation groups, and the National Rifle Assn. have stalked the halls of Congress waving the flag, repeating arguments they knew to be spurious, and hinting at political reprisals."

"They were in the cafeterias, the elevators, in the reception rooms and in the galleries waiting for a chance to buttonhole what looked to them like another vote for their own perverted view of the public interest..."

NRA officials emphatically deny these charges.

"It's a lie, Dodd's dead wrong, and he should know better," retorted angrily one NRA spokesman.

Rocky feels victory possible

WASHINGTON—It must seem fantastic to many people that Nelson Rockefeller should think he has a serious chance of getting the Republican nomination.

But he does and my purpose is to examine why he thinks so and what he is doing about it.

Rockefeller is simply refusing to take no for an answer and he doesn't believe he will have to if he can effectively sharpen his differences with Richard Nixon.

This will be a central purpose of Rockefeller's stepped-up campaign.

Naturally, he would like to get Nixon on a nationwide joint television appearance. The reason is that he feels it would point up their divergent approaches to such compelling issues as how best to further racial justice, how to dissolve the climate of violence, how to deal with ghetto poverty, and possibly on how to get peace in Vietnam on which Nixon has lately been silent.

Now, why would making their differences more visible help Rockefeller? He believes that Nixon's position on these issues would help Nixon mostly with Republican voters who are already behind him and hurt Nixon with Democratic and independent voters who are far less drawn to him. And there are more of them. This, in turn, serve to lift Rockefeller's standing in the polls.

Important facts

The importance of this strategy rests on these facts:

There is only one circumstance under which the GOP convention will give Rockefeller the nomination—that is, if he is a virtually certain winner over any Democrat and Nixon is a very uncertain winner. The latest Gallup poll, for example, shows Humphrey running six per cent ahead of Nixon but only three per cent ahead of Rockefeller.

Rockefeller's whole campaign, from here to the convention, will be aimed, not primarily at influencing the delegates, but at influencing his standing in the polls as the candidate who would best insure a Republican victory in November.

Rockefeller aides, including five past Republican National Chairmen, one of whom was Barry Goldwater's running-mate, William Miller, are now making this case to GOP delegates in their efforts to stem the Nixon tide:

1—Rockefeller has never lost an election and Nixon has not won an election on his own since 1962. He has often faced uphill contests and has won against great odds. Polls showed he couldn't possibly be nominated for Governor of New York in 1958 and that he was not likely to defeat the incumbent Averell Harriman. He was nominated. He was elected. Polls showed him to be far behind in his third-term bid two years ago. He reversed the trend, won comfortably.

Without horns

2—Conservatives who got to know Rockefeller find he doesn't have horns. He believes in fiscal responsibility and practices it. He has run a balanced budget every year he has been in office. The political climate in New York state has been such as to attract new industry.

3—Rockefeller has had long and varied experience in the Federal government under three Presidents. He has had extensive executive experience as Governor of New York. He has proved himself vividly aware of the most acute national problems of poverty, race relations, and crime, has the background and training to deal with them and the talent of leadership needed to deal with them.

These are the pro-Rockefeller arguments and it is a fair assumption they will fall on unresponsive ears unless on the eve of the convention the polls show that Nixon is slipping and would be an exceedingly risky choice.

The only key Rockefeller has to open the door to his nomination is to demonstrate, if he can, his clearly superior electability.

In an interview Thursday, he maintained that no NRA officer ever went to the office of congressmen or buttonholed them in the reception room to the Senate Chamber.

"We make it a policy not to visit congressmen. We bend over backwards not to," he said.

"We're not a registered lobby and we don't lobby congress," he insisted.

He did say, however, that NRA officials were sometimes in the House and Senate galleries to hear the debate on gun-control bills. He also admitted he didn't always know whom they were having lunch with.

The spokesman may not have been telling the whole truth. But several congressmen interviewed this week asserted that the image of the gun lobbyist as a "sneaky, little man" stalking the halls of congress was grossly inaccurate.

They maintained, like McEwen, that the gun lobbyist is first and foremost "Mister Jo Citizen" who writes his congressman and lets him know what he thinks.

What then is the truth about the role of the National Rifle Assn. today the whipping boy of gun-control advocates.

To begin with, the NRA is classified by the Internal Revenue Service as a "social welfare" organization. This means it pays no taxes on its more than five million dollar annual income.

Its membership as of May 1968 was 993,000. The NRA spokesman said Thursday the million mark would soon be passed.

The NRA official journal is the "American Rifleman," which NRA officials boast is the "most complete monthly publication on firearms and shooting available anywhere in the world." Its circulation is currently about 1,200,000.

One of the major activities of the NRA is "public relations." According to the NRA's report on its 1967 activities, "the entire NRA Headquarters operation" contributes to its public relations effort.

Put best foot forward

NEW YORK — People... Places
One of the clearest statements of the 1968 political campaigns was made the other night at the Unicorn, Tony Berns's hip restaurant, by a pretty girl named Maureen Reagan.

Maureen is Ronald Reagan's daughter by Jane Wyman, his first wife. She has been speaking to young groups through the country on the joys and merits of Conservative politics. I asked her what her central theme was.

"I tell them that you can't gild the lily without putting your best foot forward," the beautiful young thing said very seriously. That girl's going places in the political world.

Graduation exercises

The graduation exercises at the Air Force Academy were jarred by a low-level supersonic "pass" by an F-105. The sonic boom blew out dozens of windows. The pilot, a veteran of 100 missions in the war in Vietnam, was under strict instructions to fly over much slower and higher. He has been grounded indefinitely.

Secretary of the Air Force Harold Brown was not as angry at the hot-rod pilot as was the Air Force Academy brass.

"Let's look at it this way," he said to Gen. John P. McConnell, Chief of Staff. "We've got two things to be grateful for: nobody was hurt by the flying glass, and the plane wasn't an F-111."

"I'm out here at Roosevelt raceway and just as I'm reading your story on Lou Nova's dream of becoming president in the New York column the sixth race goes off," writes Arthur Susskind, Jr., long-time sports publicist.

"And would you believe it, a horse name of Lou's Dream wins! So don't count that guy out, yet. Joe Louis did, but it took a beat of a punch to finish Lou."

"This was the bout in which we invented the Cosmic Punch. It really had the Brown Bomber scared to death. In the fight before that, while Lou was training at the Omnipotent's place in Nyack, New York, we made Lou a Yogi. Dick McCann and I did that publicity. Nothing like that happens in fight camps any more."

"Nova, by the way, kayped Max Baer twice. No other boxer can make that claim."

These are your questions

My husband has for years refused to go to a doctor, even though he complains constantly of various aches and pains in his intestines. With severe pressure, we finally got him to do so only to find that he totally disregards all the advice and drugs that are given to him. How can I convince him that his life and the family's destiny depends on his getting well?

Mrs., W.D., Texas

Dear Mrs. D.: Many studies have been made on difficult stubborn patients who do not cooperate with their doctors or follow any of the suggestions that are made to them. One of the most astute investigations was made by Mrs. Frances C. Macgregor, a social anthropologist who is now a professor at Cornell University School of Nursing in New York City.

Mrs. Macgregor points out that nurses and doctors are distressingly frustrated by patients who deliberately resist any established medical or nursing regime. When such frustrations occur, doctors and nurses understandably lose interest, especially when they are aware that their own time is being wasted by stubborn or perverse patients.

The NRA lists as the first objective of its public relations program "to inform the general public on the various aspects of federal, state, and local firearms legislation." Its second aim is "to increase the prestige and public acceptance of the NRA in its various programs."

According to its latest report, 1967 was a "particularly active year" for the public relations office, whose staff was increased from three to five fulltime professionals.

During that year, the office wrote 71 special releases, distributed 234,300 stories, prepared 5,372 hometown releases, made up safety spots for 603 radio stations, and arranged 73 appearances for officials before civic and professional groups.

In the 1967 report, the office boasted that it had "arranged for, prepared, or 'planted'" 12 major stories in national publications such as the AP feature service, "Presbyterian Life," and "Club Women."

The key to the association's reputed success in thwarting gun-control legislation is the American Rifleman. Through the magazine, the NRA keeps its one million readers posted on every single piece of gun-control legislation under consideration at the local, state, and federal levels.

"We don't lobby congress," explained the NRA spokesman, "but our members do exercise the right of petition. Thank God."

Indeed, it is the "right of petition" that NRA members frequently use that explains the power of the "gun lobby."

In fact, the flood of letters from hunters, woodsmen, and even housewives that periodically inundates the offices of congressmen, particularly those from the West and rural areas, has stymied all efforts to impose strict gun controls.

Now, it is the right of petition that Dodd and other advocates of stiff controls are counting upon to defeat the infamous "gun lobby."

"They are using the same tactic we have always used," commented the NRA spokesman.

Frank Mason was among the scattering of Octogenarians who attended a little bash we had the other day at Tools Shor's for Jimmy Kilgallen, who'll be 80 next month. Before coming north from Leesburg, Va., for the occasion, Frank wrote:

Obvious choice

"In the late twenties, when I was president of International News Service, Barry Faris and I looked over our stable to pick a top man to build up as a star roving reporter. Jimmy was the obvious choice."

"This was before TV made violence, shootings, mayhem and murder the steady diet of the American people. In those simple days, gangsters, gun molls and bootleggers were the stories to be covered by our star reporter. One of his early assignments was to cover the murder trial of a Cincinnati bootlegger named Remus. When he returned he said to me, 'Frank I had a funny experience with Remus. Of course, I took a room in the same hotel where he was staying. When I stopped at the desk one evening, the clerk handed me a note. It was from Remus. He was asking me to drop by his room—he had something for me. Naturally, I thought it would be an exclusive story of some sort.'

"Remus yelled for me to come in when I knocked at his door. He was alone, sitting at a table in the center of the room. On the table were stacks of ten and twenty dollar bills with rubber bands around them. Remus made a gesture of pushing the money toward me. He said something like here, Jimmy, you can use this. I don't need it. I tried in a nice way to thank him and tell him I didn't want it. But he kept insisting. Finally, I told Remus I had never seen so much cash money outside a bank teller's cage, and asked how much there was there. Remus said seventy-five hundred dollars."

"Well, Frank, I just turned and walked out. There was no use arguing with Remus. With the Depression on, Remus couldn't understand why anyone would turn down money."

"Well, Bob, that's the story," Frank Mason's letter concluded. "Jimmy walked out on a year's pay."

Trouble with television

WASHINGTON — I've finally figured out what's wrong with television. At least so far as these "talk" shows are concerned. TV stations have no build-in net detectors, as we have in the newspaper business.

Let me explain.

For years, ever since I've been in this business and long before that, nuts have been walking in off the street to tell us what's wrong with the world and to set us straight on things. The average newspaper reporter or deskman knows how to deal with these people and he gives them the attention they deserve. (Frequently, none.)

An example: A few years back there was a woman who came into the office at least once a week and tried to tell me that the White House Police were plotting against her. It seems they were all Russian agents and they were trying to destroy her before she could tell the president what she knew.

Naturally, I never wrote her "story," namely because I knew she was a nut and had nothing worthwhile to say. Today, it would not surprise me to see her on the Joe Pyne show and being taken very seriously.

Nixon has a fairly good chance to win, if only Eisenhower doesn't try to help him.

Deborah J. Frederick

E-burg coed class officer at Kutztown

EAST STROUDSBURG — Deborah J. Frederick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denton Frederick, 593 North Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, has been named class secretary for the academic year starting in the fall at Kutztown State College.

The 1967 graduate of East Stroudsburg High School will enter the second year at Kutztown where she is majoring in sociology with plans for teaching.

The senior class president in high school, Miss Frederick was named to the Dean's list at the college for her first year. She was a candidate for Spring Weekend Queen on the campus and is a member of the Pennsylvania Student Education Association.

Hintze elected chairman of county health society

STROUDSBURG — At a recent meeting of the Tuberculosis & Health Society of Northeast Pennsylvania, Monroe County office, Elwood Hintze, Jonas May, and Mrs. Robert Clark, were elected chairman, vice-chairman, and secretary, respectively.

May and Dr. Bruce Dunlop were elected representatives to the Northeast Society. Mrs. Peter Emmons and Carl Secor were elected representative and alternate, respectively, to the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis & Health Society.

Mrs. Bruce Fleming gave a report of X-ray and tuberculin testing activities of the Society during the past year.

Secor, chairman of the 1967 Christmas Seal campaign, announced that $14,980 was raised this year, an increase of $856 over the $13,985 raised in 1966.

Secor praised the newspaper and radio stations who serve

STROUDSBURG — Incomes were up in Monroe County in the past year and the improvement was reflected in the volume of retail business that was done.

Sales of food, wearing apparel, furniture, household appliances and other items were at a record level.

As a result, according to the final tabulations, most retail stores had a top notch year.

Just how well they made out is detailed in a new report on consumer buying, released by the Standard Rate and Data Service. It shows how people in the local area and in other parts of the country spent their money during the year.

In Monroe County, a large portion of it went for food. Approximately 24 cents out of every dollar spent in local retail stores was for such purchases.

Intoxication charge filed

STROUDSBURG — A 43-year-old Philadelphia woman is out on bail after being charged with public intoxication and disorderly conduct by East Stroudsburg Police.

Vicky Wall was arrested by East Stroudsburg Police on E. Brown St. for public intoxication. Police took her to jail and once inside she began fighting with police and guards at the jail.

She refused to give her name to guards at the jail and police for several hours.

As a consequence, bakeries, butcher shops, grocery stores, supermarkets and other food outlets in the area had a sales volume of $18,113,000, a gain over the prior year's $17,269,000.

This was solely for take-home food. Expenditures in restaurants and in other eating and drinking places are excluded.

If the amount that was expended in food stores were to be divided uniformly among the local population, it would be equivalent to $1,362 per household. This was more than was spent in that direction in most other parts of the United States. The average was $1,218 per household. In the State of Pennsylvania it was $1,278.

Other retail stores in the local area also profited from the big consumer spending.

Those selling cars, motorcycles, boats and other automotive equipment and supplies had receipts totaling $17,373,000, against the previous year's $16,726,000.

Department stores and variety stores carrying general merchandise had a sales volume of $7,737,000. Their 1966 total was $7,197,000.

Specialty and apparel shops, including those selling hats, shoes, dresses and other articles of clothing, ended the year with $3,200,000, as against the prior year's $2,389,000.

Furniture and home furnishings stores accounted for $1,993,000, compared with the former year's $1,801,000.

12 county businesses exported $1.8 million

HARRISBURG — Twelve Monroe County industrial concerns are among 2,383 Pennsylvania industries recorded as exporting products to foreign countries, according to an industrial census for 1966 recently completed by the State Department of Internal Affairs.

An exporter is defined by the department as "a Pennsylvania manufacturing establishment exporting $500 or more worth of goods during the year."

The total volume of manufactured goods exported by Monroe County manufacturing companies during the year amounted to $1,898,000—broken down into $1,113,000 in direct exports; $268,000 exported through intermediaries (exporting companies, banks and wholesalers engaged in foreign trade) and $516,000 sold to others for exporting.

In 1965, according to department records, 10 county firms exported products valued at $1,360,000.

Monroe County firms

exported a variety of items including: Yarn throwing, twisting and winding, cotton man-made fibers and silk; industrial organic chemicals; hardware; fabricated plate work (boiler shops); miscellaneous machinery, except electrical.

Noncurrent-carrying wiring devices; radio and television transmitting, signaling, and detection equipment and apparatus; photographic equipment and supplies; brooms and brushes; manufactured products.

Insofar as the "port of export" New York City is first on the list of 129 ports with 1,422 Pennsylvania exporters using this port. In second place was Philadelphia with 911 exporters; followed by Buffalo, New York, with 540; Baltimore, Maryland, with 344; and Laredo, Texas, with 174. The department noted each company is counted for each port through which its products are exported.

On the other hand, Canada is the favorite country of export with 1,575 companies exporting to our Northern neighbor; followed by 585 manufacturers exporting to England; 563 to Puerto Rico; 515 to Mexico; and 483 to Germany.

Landscaping course set at State

STROUDSBURG — Home landscapers, amateurs and professionals, are going to college to learn more about the selection, establishment, maintenance and use of plant materials around the home, announced assistant county agent E. Anne Lott.

The five-day course, July 8-12, will be conducted on the main campus of Pennsylvania State University and is open to any individual 16 years of age or older.

Enrollees may live in the university residence halls and eat in the dining halls.

Information available: A copy of the program, application blanks and costs for the course may be secured by contacting the Agricultural Extension Office, 205 Post Office Building, Stroudsburg.

The course will cover areas such as: Maintaining turf for the home lawn; identification and selection of plant materials; design principles; planting, pruning and maintaining plant materials; disease and insect control.

Within Argentina's one million square miles are fertile pampas, lofty mountains, flat plains, deserts, forests and a waterfall higher than Niagara.

Stroudsburg pair appeals damage case

STROUDSBURG — An appeal to the Pennsylvania Superior Court has been filed by a Stroudsburg couple seeking a more favorable decision on the amount of damages awarded by a Monroe County jury in 1965.

Edward C. and Elizabeth K. Boushell, 112 Park Ave., Stroudsburg, proprietors of the Park Avenue Motel, Stroudsburg, have appealed to the higher court which has asked for transcripts of the case.

According to a writ of certiorari filed in county court, a hearing will be held Sept. 2.

The J. H. Beers Co., contractors, Bangor, are defendants in the case in which the plaintiffs were awarded $5,750 for property damages and $395 for personal injuries after the construction company was found guilty of causing the damages due to blasting operations in 1961.

LVSSE appoints Hadden

John C. Hadden, Stroudsburg, was appointed to the personnel committee at a meeting of the Board of Directors of Lehigh Valley Social Service Exchange held recently in the Hotel Bethlehem.

Mrs. Harold S. Pond and Mrs. William P. Wells, other representative to the Exchange board from Monroe County, will continue serving on the development committee.

At the meeting the Social Service Exchange board approved a 1969 budget in amount of $14,865. This figure covers the cost of providing confidential clearing service to member health and welfare agencies in Carbon, Lehigh, Monroe, Northampton and Pike Counties in Pennsylvania, and Warren County in New Jersey.

Miss Mary Shaffer, chairman of the public relations committee, described three orientation sessions in which Social Service Exchange board members briefed agency board members on the operations of the Exchange.

These visits to the Exchange by agency personnel have been so successful that in Fall the plan will be extended to Carbon and Monroe County agencies.

R. N. appoint new secretary in state post

HARRISBURG — The appointment of Kathryn J. Grove, R.N., as Acting Executive Secretary of the Pennsylvania Nurses Association has been announced by Dr. Lucie S. Young, R.N., president of the organization.

Miss Grove originally joined the association staff in 1955, and served as its legislative representative throughout the succeeding years.

A native of Camp Hill, Miss Grove is a graduate of the Pennsylvania Hospital School of Nursing in Philadelphia and has attended the University of Pennsylvania.

State legislators have come to know Miss Grove as an ardent advocate of all legislation designed to protect and up-grade the quality of nursing care in Pennsylvania, as well as to strengthen the profession of nursing within the commonwealth.

Succeeding Agnes E. M. Anderson, R.N., who retired at the beginning of the month, Miss Grove heads one of the largest and oldest state nurses associations in the nation.

As the local constituent of the American Nurses Association, the Pennsylvania Nurses Association is the official spokesman for the profession of nursing in this state. Headquarters of the organization are at 2515 North Front Street, Harrisburg.

'Painting up' Father's Day

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — When Judson Whitback came home from work this weekend he didn't know his house.

Formerly a brown house, it was now a bright yellow.

The mystery was cleared up when Whitback saw painted on one side of the house: "Happy Father's Day."

Opening lead—king of hearts.

It is generally easier to play a hand perfectly if you see the defenders' cards. But even though you don't see their cards in real life, you can frequently force your adversaries to disclose their distribution, thereby accomplishing the same result as if their cards were exposed. For example, consider this hand where West leads the K-A of hearts and continues with the jack after East plays high-low to show a doubleton. Declarer ruffs in dummy with the eight and is faced with the problem of avoiding a club loser. This is surely not a difficult task if you look at the opponents' cards to see where the queen is located and then finesse in the right direction.

But to judge which way to finesse when you are at the bridge table is a much more complicated problem. You could argue that West is more likely to have the queen of clubs because he was the one who bid, or you could also argue that East is more likely to have the queen of clubs because he probably has more clubs than West.

Both arguments are valid, though they lead to opposite conclusions. The best way of solving such irreconcilable view-points is by first trying to learn more about the adverse distribution.

In line with this, you cash the A-K of trumps, the A-K of spades, and ruff a spade. You then re-enter dummy with a trump and ruff the last spade. When West follows suit, your troubles are over. West has shown up with precisely four spades, six hearts and two diamonds — and hence must have exactly one club.

Accordingly, you lead a low club to the king and a club back to the jack, silently thanking the powers that be that each player at the table is always dealt precisely thirteen cards — neither more nor less.

AAUW book drops set up

STROUDSBURG — Cardboard "barrels" have been placed in stores and other strategic places in the county as "book drops" where people may leave their books for the annual Book Fair of the Stroudsburg branch of the American Assn. of University Women.

Proceeds from the Book Fair are used by AAUW for grants-in-aid for local high school graduates attending college as well as their international fellowship fund.

The general public is asked to take any books they wish to donate to the most convenient book drop. Book Fair will be held in the Keystone Room at Wyckoff's the first week in July. Mrs. James F. Marsh is general chairman of the affair. Committees are now working at sorting and pricing the books already donated. Book Fairs have also proved valuable for the general public since students can find textbooks and reference works; and the general reader can find anything from the classics to mysteries, from poetry to art.

Children's books are in special demand. Assisting Mrs. Raymond Price Jr. with the painting were Mrs. Rosemary Driebe Olofson, Mrs. Dale Parker, Mrs. Walter Peeney Jr., Mrs. Richard Price and Mrs. David Montgomery. The book drops have been placed at the three A & P stores in the county, East Stroudsburg National Bank, Giant Market, Turn's General Store, Bushkill; Lewis Market, Cresco; Rea and Derick, Cresco; Brite Dry Cleaners, Stroudsburg. Others will be placed later.

Family Fare

Barrett servicemen due for some homemade cookies

CANADENSIS — Members of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit of Barrett Township will close their year's activities by packing boxes of home-made cookies to be sent to area service men at all points of assignment.

Tuesday, June 18, members will take cookies they have made or cookies made by interested community women to the Legion Home on Spruce Cabin Road and begin packing them at 7 p.m. to be shipped to men in the service from Paradise and Barrett Townships. It was emphasized that the packages would be mailed to servicemen no matter where they are stationed, around the world.

During the past year, under the guidance of Mrs. Bea Jones, the membership has increased steadily, with each new member welcomed to join in efforts to keep servicemen abroad and those hospitalized aware that they are remembered. At the June meeting, Mrs. Pat Schleiker and Mrs. Gladys Booker were welcomed as new members.

In closing the year, members voted a new slate of officers to be installed at special services in the Legion Home August 25 at 2 p.m. Mrs. Wilma Curnoles will receive the presidential gavel from Mrs. Jones. Mrs. Patricia Kice is first vice-president; Mrs. Eleanor Cramer, second vice-president. Miss Diane Blitz is treasurer and recording secretary, is Mrs. Dorothy Crowell with Blanch Evans corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Elaine Blitz is new historian, Mrs. Marge Varvel, chaplain and Mrs. Marian Slyk and Mrs. Marie Albert are sergeant-at-arms.

The next regular meeting of the unit is set for September. Following the June meeting at which Mrs. Varvel reported a successful poppy sale and sick members and veterans in the hospital were remembered, Mrs. Tony Christensen, Mrs. Elaine Blitz, Mrs. Joyce Quinn and Mrs. Mary Sopko served refreshments.

Garden Club members show varied hobbies at display

STROUDSBURG — Members of the Monroe County Garden Club have a lot of hobbies besides gardening and arranging flowers as they proved at their Flower and Hobby Show held at the Keystone Room at Wyckoff's.

Women taking part and their hobbies were: Mrs. Elwood Grant, display of driftwood; Mrs. Manuel Deus and Mrs. Thomas H. Weiss, needlepoint; Mrs. Harold L. Gawe, milk glass; Mrs. Edwin S. Treible, cut glass, salt, pepper and toothpick cellars.

Mrs. J. Harold Lanterman, old fashioned oil lamps and beaded bags; Mrs. William G. Dievler, photographs of birds; Mrs. A. Starr Phelps, old fashioned children's clothes and collection of small glass bottles. Mrs. Howard Clugston, handmade garments and embroidered sofa pillow covers made 75 years ago; Mrs. Mark L. Bristol, crocheted runner; Mrs. James P. Smith, collection of pitchers;

Mrs. R. B. Irwin, specimens of her own handweaving; Mrs. Russell Swingle, oil painting; Mrs. Frank P. Ervey, dresses; Mrs. Donald Price, greeting cards on plywood; Mrs. Edward Boushell, glassware; Mrs. Arthur McLeod, 1820 vanity case, miniature Mennonite doll carriage and button shoes. Mrs. Vernon L. Wallace, embroidery; Mrs. Edward R. Larrison, African violets; Mrs. William Muehlfelder, floating candles; Mrs. Bernard Peters, crocheted lap robe; Mrs. Richard M. Gordon, ceramics.

The flower part of the show came in the flowers featured in each display; roses, lupines, peonies, wendy, beauty blush, purple clover and big containers of laurel.

The attendance prize won by Paul Schmeier of Portland was a subscription to the Purple Martin Magazine. Mrs. William G. Dievler, bird chairman, is working for five more subscriptions to earn a martin house for Stroudsburg. Deadline is the last of June.

Mrs. Mark L. Bristol and Mrs. J. Harold Lanterman were co-chairmen of the affair. Hostesses during the two-day show are Mrs. Ernest W. Schwartz, Mrs. Raymond J. Arnold, Mrs. Rudolph Chiappi, Mrs. Howard Clugston, Mrs. William G. Dievler, Mrs. W. R. Erickson, Mrs. Frank P. Ervey, Mrs. Harold L. Gawe, Mrs. J. Harold Lanterman, Mrs. Edward R. Larrison, Mrs. Arthur McLeod, Mrs. John W. Robertson, Mrs. George M. Rung, Mrs. James P. Smith, Mrs. Donald Price, Mrs. Edwin S. Treible, Mrs. Vernon L. Wallace and Miss Grace Dreher.

Mrs. James Anthony Ceraul (Lens Art)

Mary F. O'Donnell weds in Pen Argyl

PEN ARGYL — St. Elizabeth Church, Pen Argyl was the setting for the marriage of Miss Mary Frances O'Donnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. O'Donnell of Margarita, Canal Zone, to James Anthony Ceraul, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ceraul of Pen Argyl.

Rev. Charles M. Shanley, C. M. performed the 11 a.m. service. The bride was given in marriage by her father and attended by Mrs. Kathleen Helman of Easton, as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Julia Ceraul and Mrs. Floria Hendershot of Pen Argyl and the junior bridesmaid was Miss Ann O'Donnell of the Canal Zone.

Mr. Ceraul was graduated from Cristobal High School and from the Stroudsburg School of Cosmetology. She is employed at Mack Printing, Easton. Mr. Ceraul was graduated from Pen Argyl High School, served two years in the Army and is employed at Harvey G. Dietrich Chevrolet Co. They went to Bermuda on their honeymoon.

Leisure Hour activities are varied

STROUDSBURG — The Leisure Hour Club shared with Mrs. Iona Patchen the highlights of her trip to visit the mission stations of her church, the Pilgrim Holiness.

She showed slides of Barbados, St. Croix, Trinidad and other islands in the West Indies, showing the natives, their homes, churches and sugar plantations.

Birthday greetings were sung to Mrs. Florence Post and Mrs. Elizabeth Custard. Mrs. Ruth Jones sang a solo.

At the last meeting, the president and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sommer, entertained the group in celebration of their 48th wedding anniversary. Rev. George Doll of the Cherry Valley Methodist Church spoke to both MORA and Leisure Hour Club on the need of more prayer in the world today.

At their meeting on June 26 the members will have a bus ride to the mountains to see the laurel and rhododendron, leaving the YMCA at 10:30 a.m. They will have lunch enroute.

New director named for Children's Bureau

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Children's Bureau got a new leader Monday when the Monroe County Commissioners appointed Melvin Sweeney executive director of the bureau.

Sweeney will serve as acting director beginning in July when present director Charles Jones goes to Scranton to work as a Pennsylvania State Field Representative of Children's Aid.

Sweeney's appointment is conditional upon his taking a test for the executive director's position and complying with necessary experience qualifications which he lacks.

Associated with the Monroe County Bureau for two years as a caseworker, Sweeney cited the most urgent need of the Bureau as a need for foster parents.

More homes needed

More than 40 couples are caring for about 64 children at this time, Sweeney said. Many more applicants are needed. "We need people with room for children and love for children," Sweeney said. "People who feel they have something to offer in love, affection, and supervision."

Although the bureau does pay parents two dollars a day board, plus clothing and medical expenses, Sweeney said "the rewards are not financial."

Sweeney before joining the Children's Bureau worked as a Youth Development Counselor in Stroudsburg. Prior to that, he worked as a health physicist at Pennsylvania State University, of which he is a graduate.

He will direct three caseworkers and one secretary.

MELVIN SWEENEY—Director of Children's Bureau who have in their charge 195 children. The Children's Aid Office conducts a foster home program, counseling and protective service, service to children in their homes, and adoptions.

Sweeney said a homemaker service and a daycare service, already underway, would be expanded.

Sweeney, who lives at 21 S. Eighth St., Stroudsburg, is married to the former Gail Louise Leightley and has two sons.

Housing statutes outlined

STROUDSBURG — Attorney Peter J. O'Brien Monday night explained the present implications and stipulations of existing "Fair Housing" laws on the state and Federal level to a well-attended meeting of the Monroe County Inter-racial Council in the Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

O'Brien, Mount Pocono attorney, told the group that at present there are no consequences for violators of such laws in that they would necessarily face a jail sentence.

He said that both state and Federal statutes basically follow the same procedure in "setting up the machinery" for settling legitimate complaints in a conciliatory manner.

According to O'Brien the Federal laws concerning discrimination in housing originally only dealt with housing under Federal programs but will, on Jan. 1, 1969, prohibit discrimination on all levels except for single family dwellings.

Personal dwellings

He added that on Jan. 1, 1970, personal dwellings will come under the rulings if a broker is used in transactions. He emphasized that currently there is no stipulation regulating the private dwelling owner and there will be none unless a broker is engaged in the dealings.

In other action council approved as a course of action to send a representative group to the administration of East Stroudsburg State College to inquire about practices used by the college in accepting housing lists for the use of faculty members in selecting places for residence.

Chairman of the council, Rev. John Bendik, St. Matthew's Catholic Church, East Stroudsburg, said the purpose of the meeting with college officials is to determine if ESSC is accepting housing lists without inquiring if those renting or selling would discriminate against certain races or nationalities.

He emphasized that the session was not to exert any type of pressure but merely as a group of concerned citizens to investigate what situations may exist at the college.

Dr. Fosdick was succeeded in 1946 by Rev. Dr. Robert J. McCracken retired a year ago. The pupil committee has spent two years screening 200 candidates before selecting Dr. Campbell.

Their choice was approved by about 300 members of the congregation last week. Among those who spoke enthusiastically for his selection were John D. Rockefeller III, a member of Riverside and Dr. McCracken.

Two commissioners disagree on water pollution report

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Commissioner Nancy Shukaitis and Chairman Elwood Hintze disagreed Monday on a request by TIRAC Executive Director Frank Dressler that the commissioners back testimony he will make in support of regional control of water pollution.

Dressler said in a letter to TIRAC members, which include the commissioners, that he would support a plan, calling for regional rather than individual control of water pollution, at the June 26 meeting of the Delaware River Basin Commission.

Dressler added that unless he was informed otherwise by the commissioners, he would represent them also.

Mrs. Shukaitis said she wanted to "go on record" that until the Monroe County Planning and Zoning Commission, township supervisors, and "all other governmental heads" approve of the recommendation, the commissioners should be opposed.

Commissioner Arlington W. Martin said he did not think it was a matter of concern to the commissioners, since the letter had been addressed to members of TIRAC. But Mrs. Shukaitis said she felt matters such as this, which concern the county, are of concern to the commissioners.

"I'd surely want it on the record that I am representing the county," Mrs. Shukaitis said. "Unless we have a resolution and a case study, this will have to be Mr. Dressler's personal opinion."

Hintze in favor Hintze disagreed with Mrs. Shukaitis, saying he was in favor of backing Dressler.

"Whoever has to represent the county has to take responsibility for it," Hintze said. "Either you accept this responsibility or you don't. I would support the professional planners."

"I see nothing wrong with Mr. Dressler's proposal," Hintze added. "It purely concerns what we heard last week at the college (at the Tocks Island Regional Advisory Council's 'Environmental Awareness' Conference at East Stroudsburg State College June 8). The type of thinking for a development like the dam must be on a regional basis."

Mrs. Shukaitis said, however, "There's a lot more at stake here. To sit here and say 'go ahead,' to me seems wild."

But Hintze said "I don't think this is nailing it down—I think TIRAC should represent the regional control of liquid waste disposal."

Mrs. Shukaitis had her opposition noted in the commissioner's records.

Bid accepted The commissioner's accepted a bid from the First Stroudsburg National Bank to borrow $100,000 at three percent interest for 120 days. County Treasurer Thomas Joyce explained that this was a normal procedure until taxes begin coming in on August 1.

A bid for 3.5 percent interest was entered by the Northeastern National Bank, and one for 3.25 percent by the East Stroudsburg National Bank.

Melvin Sweeney, a caseworker in the Monroe County Children's Aid Bureau, was appointed by the commissioners as executive director of the bureau at $7,772 annually.

The commissioners approved a suggestion by Hintze that letters be sent to people directly involved in the Upper Broadhead Flood Project that, now that land has been made available by Buck Hill Falls, the commissioners were going through with the project.

During the regular meeting, the commissioners convened a salary board meeting. They approved the salary of Mary L. Freeman, temporary clerk-typist in the Children's Aid Bureau, at $7,196 annually; also the salary of Mary Widmer, temporary cook at the County Jail at $19 a day.

A salary of $16 a day was approved for Janet K. Weidensaul, temporary secretary to the chief clerk, and $84 a week for Naomi Learn, a nurses aid at the County Home. The salaries of Gerlie M. Setzer and Viola Bonser, members of the nursing department at the County Home, were raised from $64 to $66 a week.

Former Stroudsburg minister named to pulpit in New York

NEW YORK — A former minister at the First Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg has been formally approved as preaching minister of the Riverside Church in New York City.

He is Rev. Dr. Ernest Thomas Campbell, who since he packed the sanctuary at the local church with his aggressive sermons during his seven years as pastor, has served in York and the First Presbyterian Church in Ann Arbor, Mich.

"He is able to describe life graphically, and this enables him to offer his congregation a 'popular pulpit'," said DeWitt C. Baldwin, head of the Office of Religious Affairs of the University of Michigan.

In his six years at Ann Arbor, his 11 a.m. Sunday services drew nearly 500 students from the nearby university.

Developers to feature open house

STROUDSBURG — Open House for residents of the Pocono Mountains will be held by members of the Pennsylvania Vacation Land Developers Assn. Wednesday.

Twenty-one developers will participate in the open house from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Light refreshments will be served to the visitors who attend Wednesday's program "to familiarize the residents of the Pocono Mountains with the 'first-class developments in the area."

J. Douglas Ritchie, president of the PVLD, said Monday.

"It is our desire to show the residents of the region that land development is big business and demands competent and professional guidance at all levels of developing until the final product is molded."

Heavy investment "We have here in the Poconos the finest primary and second homes in the Eastern part of the United States. We hope the residents of the Poconos will take this opportunity to see first hand the results of millions of dollars of investment in new communities that are springing up all over the mountains."

East Stroudsburg school teachers receive salary increase of $1,000

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg Area School Board Monday night adopted a healthy 1968-1969 teacher salary boost of $400 across-the-board, from this year's starting salary of $5,300 to $5,700 for the 1968-1969 school year.

The proposed $2,077,908 record budget for the next school year was not adopted Monday night due to a heavy and lengthy agenda.

East Stroudsburg's starting teacher's salary of $5,700 is at present the largest minimum salary of the four district high schools.

Stroudsburg High School's Teacher's Assn. accepted the board's proposals of $5,600 starting salary for the 1968-1969 school year. The $5,600 figure will represent a $300 salary hike from the 1967-1968 salary of $5,300.

East Stroudsburg's teacher's 1968-1969 salary represents a $1,000 increase in all maximum categories from standard certificate, class one to Master's Degrees plus 30 credits, class five.

However in the new salary schedule a teacher with a standard certificate class one with 10 years experience will receive $8,700 which would be the maximum step in that category.

The maximum step in the standard certificate class one for the 1967-1968 salary schedule was $7,700 but this represented a teacher with eight years of experience.

Other maximum steps in the 1968-1969 teacher salary schedule include bachelor's degree, class two, with 11 year's experience, $9,000; Master's Degree, class three with 12 years experience, $9,600 and a Master's Degree plus 30 credits, class five, with 12 years experience, $10,100.

In other business the board approved coaches' salaries which totaled $13,000. The board also approved by a vote of 6-2 the addition of a rifle team to its sports roster. Members Samuel Kupiszewski and Donald Smith cast the negative votes.

The board discussed the inclusion of the rifle team to its sports program for about 20 minutes.

Board president Irving Sommer asked the head rifle coach Lyle Dixon how he felt about gun legislation.

Dixon said that there are courses in hunter safety and that the East Stroudsburg High School gun club has eight rifles which are registered with the federal government.

Dixon said the rifle club has 91 students which would make the rifle team the number one student participating sport at the high school.

Recommendations set on seven sub-divisions

STROUDSBURG — Recommendations for minor changes to seven subdivisions were made Monday night by the Subdivision Committee of the Monroe County Planning and Zoning Commission.

Members of the committee made recommendations on engineering covenant and some other designations on subdivision plans. None of the recommendations were believed to be major, however.

The committee will present its lists of recommendations before the full Planning Commission at its regular meeting July 2.

Following are the subdivision

plans which were reviewed:

White Birch Ridge in Middle Smithfield Township, owned by Russell Custard of Middle Smithfield; Minisink Woods in Smithfield Township, owned by Sol Katz of Smithfield; Blue Berry Heights in Chestnuthill Township, owned by Cantico Inc., Kunkletown; Rock Ledge Manor Estates in Price Township, owned by Gregerson and Kubine of Levittown; Snow Hill Falls in Price Township, also owned by Gregerson and Kubine; Charles Birdsall development in Polk Township and Frederick Banta Development in Hamilton Township.

36 on hand as Packers open camp

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—Seven veterans and 29 rookies reported to Coach Phil Bengtson Monday as the Green Bay Packers got their rookie camp underway for the 1968 season.

Two of the veterans—defensive lineman Jim Weatherwax and defensive back Doug Hart—signed their 1968 contracts with General Manager Vince Lombardi before the drills began.

The camp, which lasts through Wednesday, is designed mainly to acquaint the new men with the terminology and methods of the professional football champions and quarterbacks Bart Starr and Don Horn were on hand to help Bengtson, who will be starting his first year as head coach.

Starr led the Packers to wins over Dallas for the NFL title and crown. He will be starting his 13th season with Green Bay. Horn is in his second year.

Other veterans on hand, in addition to Starr, Horn, Weatherwax and Hart, were centers Ken Bowman and Rick Hyland and flanker Boyd Dowler.

Weatherwax, a 6-foot-7, 260-pounder, was a starter part of the time last season when regular defensive end Lionel Aldridge was sidelined with a fractured leg. Hart was the No. 1 reserve in the defensive backfield and is a five year veteran.

Monday's opening session in the rookie camp included classroom work in the morning and an hour and a half's loosening up drills on the Green Bay practice field.

Birds won't lose Blair to service

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—The Baltimore Orioles said Monday that centerfielder Paul Blair will not have to report for active duty with his Army reserve unit on June 26 as originally announced.

Oriole personnel director Harry Dalton said that Blair's active duty orders have been revoked by the Army "by reason of dependency." Blair became a father for the second time on May 29 and now has four dependents, entitling him to file a request with the Army to be placed on inactive status.

The Oriole outfielder was given a second medical examination last Friday because he is still bothered by an old ankle injury, but Dalton said he assumed the dependency exemption superceded any medical exemption.

On Saturday, the Orioles traded pitcher Bruce Howard to the Washington Senators for Fred Valentine as outfield insurance in case they lost Blair.

Vikings sign Trojans' Yary

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (UPI)—The Minnesota Vikings said Monday they have signed their No. 1 draft choice, lineman Ron Yary of Southern California, for the 1968 season.

The 6-5, 265-pound All-America tackle agreed to terms Monday, but terms of the contract were not disclosed.

"Ron is most anxious to play and at whatever position our coaches feel he is best suited for," General Manager Jim Finks said.

"Yary is an outstanding boy and I feel he will make a definite contribution to the team," he added.

Yary, 22, was the first player chosen in the 1968 draft when the Vikings exercised the bonus pick acquired from New York when Minnesota traded quarterback Fran Tarkenton to the Giants.

At Southern California, Yary played defensive end as a sophomore and was switched to offensive tackle in his junior and senior years.

Viking Coach Bud Grant indicated Yary will be tried first at offensive tackle but said he also could be used as a defensive lineman.

Yary will miss the first 2-1/2 weeks of Viking training camp to be a member of the College All-Star team.

Starting center signed by Jets

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Jets of the American Football League announced Monday that they had signed starting center John Schmitt to his 1968 contract.

The 24-year-old Schmitt, who stands 6-4 and weighs 245 pounds, has been with the Jets since he graduated from Hofstra five years ago. He has been the first string center for the past two seasons.

On Saturday, the Orioles traded pitcher Bruce Howard to the Washington Senators for Fred Valentine as outfield insurance in case they lost Blair.

Promotion for Trevino

Shop helper to co-owner of club

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Claudia Trevino, the comely, blonde wife of newly-crowned U.S. Open golf champion Lee Trevino, admitted to a "big head" Monday, but not of the self-esteem variety.

"I've never had a hangover like this," the 21-year-old Mrs. Trevino commented in the wake of her husband's startling feat of winning the biggest prize in golf Sunday at Oak Hill Country Club in Rochester, N.Y.

She was referring to the big party thrown by Trevino's friends and associates at the Horizon City Country Club where Lee was a $30 a week pro shop helper a year ago before his meteoric rise to links fame. He now owns one-third interest in the club.

"Four cases of champagne and no telling how many cases of beer were consumed," she said. "We started on tequila (a fiery Mexican liquor) and worked our way up."

"I talked to him on the phone, but we had such a head start on him with our celebration that I don't remember much of the conversation."

"I don't know what to say about his winning it. I can't think much yet. It's so hard to believe he won it."

Trevino's victory was having other reverberations at Horizon City, a land development suburb 17 miles from the heart of this city on the Rio Grande border with Mexico.

Don Whittington, one of Trevino's backers and another one-third owner of the country club, was flying north to meet the new golf king after an urgent call.

"Get up here, I need help."

They're swamping me with offers," Trevino said.

The third co-owner of the club, which has 700 members and is surrounded by homes in the $18,000 and up class, is Jess Whittington, a former Green Bay Packers defensive back who played his college ball here at Texas Western.

Mrs. Trevino said she did not plan to join her husband at the Canadian Open this week, but that she and Mrs. Whittington would meet their husbands in Ohio the following week for the Cleveland Open.

Lee jumped 4 places in PGA money

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI)—Lee Trevino, who made his first tournament victory a big one, leaped from eighth place to fourth in the PGA earnings list following his U.S. Open triumph.

Trevino earned $30,000 in the Open at Rochester, N.Y., Sunday to boost his year's total to $84,426, the PGA announced Monday.

This left Trevino within easy reach of Tom Weiskopf, who is second with $88,756, and third-place George Archer with $84,780. Weiskopf and Archer were also second and third last week.

Billy Casper, despite a comparatively meager pickup of $2,518 in the Open, retained the earnings lead with $128,760.

Miller Barber is fifth on the list with $69,233, followed by George Knudson ($60,230), Bobby Lunn ($59,134), Jack Nicklaus ($55,493), Arnold Palmer ($55,188) and Bert Yancey ($54,625).

Ramos adds Gil Clancy as consultant

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI)—Manuel Ramos added another consultant to his entourage Monday in preparation for his scheduled 15-round heavyweight fight against Joe Frazier in Madison Square Garden June 24.

Gil Clancy, manager of Emile Griffith, former world welterweight and middleweight champion, joined Ramos and put on the gloves against him after a public workout. Clancy, who has a promising heavyweight of his own in Forest Ward, said he wants to show Ramos how to equalize Frazier's power.

In a public workout, Ramos worked two rounds each against Angel Oquendo and Marlon Connor.

Frazier, who will be defending his share of the world heavyweight title, put in six rounds at the nearby Concord Hotel against Moleman Williams, Al Brooks and Chuck Wepper.

Drysdale, Hunter share VanHeusen

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pitchers Jim "Catfish" Hunter of the Oakland Athletics and Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday were named co-winners of the Van Heusen Outstanding Achievement Award for April and May.

Hunter threw the American League's first perfect game in 46 years when he beat Minnesota 4-0 on May 8. Drysdale earned the National League citation for a string of six consecutive shutouts.

Ronnie Duman, Speedway, Ind., was killed in the accident and a third driver, Ray Darnell, Deerfield, Ill., continued to recuperate at West Allis Memorial hospital Monday.

A spokesman said Brown was moved to be closer to his Detroit home.

Damascus is easy winner in return

STANTON, Del. (UPI)—Mrs. Edith W. Bancroft's Damascus, 1967 "Horse of the Year," returned to racing at Delaware Park Monday and won a $10,000 allowance race by almost four lengths.

It was the first start since last Feb. 10 for the bay son of Sword Dancer who finished second that day in the Charles Strub Stakes at Santa Anita.

With Manny Yeaza in the saddle for the first time on Damascus, the 4-year-old colt raced third in the early stages of the mile and 70 yards race and moved into second behind the pacesetter Light The Fuse after the first half mile.

Damascus, winner of a record $817,941 last season, easily swept past Light The Fuse in the stretch and won by three and three-quarter lengths.

Light The Fuse took second place with Classic Work third. Then came Exceedingly, who nased out Damascus here last year in the William duPont Handicap.

Damascus carried 124 pounds and was timed in 1:40 2-5, two-fifths of a second off the track record. The track was fast despite showers.

Damascus was a strong favorite and paid $2.20 to win and $2.10 to place and show. Light The Fuse paid $3.20 and $2.10 and Classic Work paid $2.10.

Klaus named Skinner's successor

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Second baseman Bobby Klaus, captain of the San Diego Padres, Monday was named manager of the Pacific Coast League club for the remainder of the season.

Klaus, 30, took over command Monday night in Vancouver, B.C., when the Padres opened a four-game series against the Mounties.

He succeeded Bob Skinner who was named manager of the Philadelphia Phillies over the weekend replacing ousted Gene Mauch.

Pro finals drowned out until September

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI)—The longest suspended match in the history of professional tennis developed Monday after rain drowned out the $32,250 U.S. Professional Grass Courts championship for the third time in six days.

The washout at weather-plagued Longwood Cricket Club tentatively shifted the $8,000 title match between Australians Rod Laver and John Newcombe to the weekend of Sep. 14-15.

That was the first available open date in the schedules of the two rival professional groups and Longwood officials took it in hopes of completing the tournament that was to have begun last Wednesday and finished up on Sunday. Rain that began falling during the night and continued through the morning forced what will be a record postponement if the title match is ultimately staged three months hence.

But the players, due in London Monday for the start of play in the Queens tournament, already had missed plane connections. Newcombe flew to New York but Laver, Dennis Ralston and the other semi-final round loser, Tony Roche, staged a lengthy practice session on the indoor courts to get ready for a heavy schedule of European play.

The bad weather was a final blow to Longwood officials and the tournament sponsors, the New England Merchants National Bank. But Ed Hickey, bank vice president in charge of tennis and weather, refused to make the players suffer because they couldn't complete the tournament.

Accordingly, all four headed for London with checks covering the least they could have won in the tournament. Laver, heavily favored to win the $8,000 top prize, pocketed $4,750 which is the loser's share in the final. Newcombe, a first year pro who has taken over as the ranking player among the so-called "Handsome Eight" of World Championship Tennis Inc., received a like amount.

Ralston and Roche, the semi-final victims who were to have played off for third place on Sunday, got $2,750 each. All the difference between first and second

PRICE'S ESSO SERVICENTER NOW IN ITS SEVENTH YEAR WITH UP TO DATE EQUIPMENT.

Seven years of hard work is paying off for Bruce Price who operates Price's Esso Servicenter, corner of N. Fifth and Oakwood Ave., Stroudsburg.

Bruce has worked hard to expand and make his services more valuable to his customers. New for Bruce this year is front end alignment, wheel balancing, tune-up scope and a brake machine.

Bruce also has a good tire sale on right now. Save up to $10 for 4 and up to $5 for 2 on Atlas Plycon. This offer expires July 8, 1968 so hurry in today.

Another reminder: State inspection is on until July 31st. Before going on your vacation stop in for a tune-up, oil change, etc. to be sure you have an enjoyable time.

Bruce also stocks a complete line of brake shoes, fuel pumps and a large stock of water pumps for most makes of cars.

The station specializes in free pick-up and delivery service. Many people have their car serviced while at work with very little inconvenience to them, thanks to Bruce... and his new A-1 mechanic "Hype" Nauman.

Bruce has 24 hour AAA road service and U-haul trailer rentals which is only a small part of his many services he offers to his many customers.

Price's Esso Servicenter is open daily and Saturday from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.

For the friendliest service in town make Price's Esso on N. Fifth St. your number one stop for automotive service.

Adolph Caprioli

Caprioli appointed to institute

HANOVER, N.J. — Adolph Caprioli, Learning Disabilities Specialist at Hanover Park, N.J. High School, has been appointed a coordinator of teacher training at the Princeton-Trenton Institute, Princeton University, for the Summer.

Caprioli attended the University of Scranton, received his B.S. in Education from East Stroudsburg State College, his M.A. from Newark State College, and is presently working towards a PhD Degree.

As a coordinator of the Princeton Program, one of 12 such nation-wide appointments, Caprioli will be instructing teachers from New Jersey Urban areas in methods and media of teaching slow learners and disadvantaged youth.

He will be demonstrating various techniques of student motivation such as role playing, and directed reading. A portion of the study will be devoted to the uses of modern teaching machinery and contemporary materials in the classroom. The overhead projector, the film, disabilities laboratories, and specially geared literature will be utilized.

The teachers will also be instructed in learning how to approach the level of the student and gradually advance his academic prowess.

Caprioli is currently a Lesson Plan author and consultant for Portia Press, a division of the Wiley Co., and has published three manuals dealing with high interest-low vocabulary teaching lessons.

At Hanover Park, Caprioli is the Chairman of the Child Study Team. Formerly he was associated with the Pocono Mt. Joint School and the Southern Wayne Joint School.

Mr. Caprioli presently resides in Randolph Township, New Jersey, with his wife, the former Sally Hope of Scranton. They have four children.

Ann Landers

Beaten once again

Dear Ann Landers: I see by the wire service that a mortician in Georgia has gone in for drive-in display windows for those who want to view the deceased friend or relative but are too busy to park their cars and come inside.

The mortician is constructing five windows six feet long—just the right size for an open coffin. The display will face a driveway at the side of the funeral home which is located on a busy street. The deceased will be lying in a lighted window, slightly tilted to make viewing easier.

The mortician who dreamed up the idea says people seem to like it. According to him, folks are in a hurry these days and the drive-in display means they can come any hour of the day or night and they don't have to get dressed in their good clothes.

I would appreciate your comments.

CONCERNED

Dear Concerned: The Russians have us beat again. Lenin has been on display under glass for years. "Have you seen the cold one yet?" is a question asked of all American tourists who visit Moscow.

In Russia, however you must stand in line, sometimes for several hours. Digger O'Dell from Dixie seems to have come up with the ultimate in convenience. Or, as they say in Georgia—"Man, that's really livin'."

Dear Ann Landers: Dad is away a lot and Mom has a hard job making us toe the line because Dad is the tough one in the family. All three of us kids are taller than Mom—even my brother who is 14. My 16-year-old brother is six feet one inch and I am 17 and six feet two inches.

A few months ago Mom and us kids were watching the hockey game on TV. When the referee fined one of the players for mouthing off, mom said, "That's a great idea. I think I'll do it with you kids." The fines ranged from 15 cents to 50 cents depending on the infraction. Mom kept track and at the end of the week she deducted the fines from our allowance. After a month we decided it made sense to speak with respect.

Yesterday I was awful proud of Mom. Someone asked her how she trained her boys to be so polite. She said, "Oh, they were never much trouble." So you see, she didn't tell on us. Wouldn't you say we have a terrific mother? Joey

Dear Joey: Yup. And I'd also say you sound like a trio of cool cats. Thanks for writing. Dear Ann Landers: Six months ago my wife caught our 16-year-old daughter smoking in the basement. My wife told Carmen she would rather have her smoke in front of her face than behind her back. So now Carmen smokes in front of her face.

My mother who is 81 years old does not approve of women smoking, much less high school girls. We go to Grandma's house for dinner the first Sunday of every month. I told Carmen that when we go to Grandma's next week she is not allowed to smoke her answer was, "Why be two-faced?" What's more, she insists that so long as her mother and I let her smoke it is none of Grandma's business.

My wife says she doesn't know how to answer Carmen because she does have a point. What do you say?

UNDECIDED

Dear Undecided: So your daughter has a point. Well, so does your wife, but if she combs her hair to the side maybe nobody will notice it. Carmen should be told that she will show the proper respect for her grandmother and

Lawyer files suit against former clients

STROUDSBURG — A Stroudsburg attorney has filed suit in Monroe County Court in his own behalf seeking action against a pair of former clients.

According to the complaint filed Thursday, Attorney Harold C. Edwards, Stroudsburg, is seeking $1,281 in past due bills allegedly owed him by Clinton and Mary R. Alden, East Stroudsburg, R.D. 1, former clients of Edwards.

The plaintiff maintains that the Aldens engaged him for services over a number of years dealing with the preparation of deeds, and settlements.

Services by the plaintiff terminated Nov. 1, 1966, with $573 due at that time according to the complaint.

Plaintiff further alleges that he paid $321 in real estate taxes, revenue stamps and other related expenses for the defendants.

According to the complaint, plaintiff also loaned the Aldens $5,400 in 1965 and 1966 making a total of $6,044 allegedly yet in arrears.

Plaintiff claims that $5,657 was paid by the defendants leaving a balance of $387 on that bill and $1,281 as a total.

Cresco area boys named to camp

CRESCO — Pocono Mountains Rotary Club has selected William Bodine, Jr., and David Collagrosso to attend Leaders Rotary Camp at Camp Brooklyn this week, according to Lloyd Geer, president of the club.

Leaders Rotary Camp is a Vocational Service project sponsored by the Rotary Clubs of Rotary International District 741, which is made up of 39 clubs in northeastern Pennsylvania. This is the fourth year for this project.

Past District Governor, Ed Dieffenbach, Montrose, who is chairman of Leaders Rotary Camp, reports that 38 Rotary Clubs will be sending 102 boys to camp. The 1967 camp was attended by 87 boys.

Bodine is a Junior at Pocono Mountain High School and Collagrosso is a junior at Pocono Central Catholic High School. Scholarships were presented to the boys at the June 12 meeting.

The five day program, features programs for the boys. There will be outstanding talks on leadership, college indoctrination with college officials, Vocational Seminars conducted by Rotary Club,

Shawnee resident to study music in Italy this summer

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE — Derek R. Witercraft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Witercraft of Shawnee, a high school student at the North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem, N.C., has received scholarships to the Siena Summer Session in Siena, Italy.

He is spending seven weeks studying concert organ under Alessandro Esposito, noted Italian organ virtuoso and composer. While there, he will tour Italy with the school. Included in his courses will be lessons in Italian.

Witercraft studied organ under Richard Mannheim of East Stroudsburg and is now studying with Dr. John Mueller of Winston-Salem, N.C.

Witercraft gave an organ recital at the Salem College Fine Arts Center on June 3. Works included in the program were by Bach, Franck and Messiaen. His parents attended the recital.

He was among 100 students chosen for the Summer Session in Italy by audition. They flew aboard a chartered Alitalia Air Lines plane to the Leonardo DiVinci Airport in Rome.

MORA Club makes plans

STROUDSBURG — The MORA Club and Leisure Hour Club launched early summer plans at a joint luncheon held in the YMCA this week.

Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Fitzgerald were honored at their 33rd anniversary of their wedding.

A letter was read from Clarence Hill who is visiting a daughter in North Carolina.

Elwood Roberts and George Heffner were greeted after a long absence.
